Receiving Communion

So many people, particularly around the holidays, ask about receiving communion. First and most important, know that you're welcome here at OLL – whether you worship regularly or only when you can! So let's review how to receive communion to put you at ease...

If you're going to receive, the ushers will show you where to go. While on line, join in our Communion Hymn and sing. Our voices give such glory to God! Those who wish to receive should make a slight bow of the head while on line before receiving. When in front of the priest or Eucharistic Minister, you should come forward with hands extended (or mouth open if you want to receive on the tongue). When the minister says, "The Body of Christ," you say: "Amen!"

The Church tells us that the most complete form of the Eucharist is to receive it under both species – bread and wine. This is certainly your choice. If you wish to receive from the cup, make a slight bow of the head while waiting on line. When you come forward, the minister will say, "The Blood of Christ" and you should reply, "Amen" and take a sip of the wine. The minister will clean the cup after you have received.

When you return to your seat, take some time to pray quietly and then join in our beautiful Communion Hymns.

OLL School Supports Outreach

The second graders, in Mrs. Fran Sullivan’s class, sold stuffed animals, games and puzzles to the first and third graders. They began this project to sharpen their math skills - counting money, making change. The money earned was used to make a Merry Christmas for an Outreach family.

Saint Bernard League

The winter months can be a stressful and tough time for many in our parish community.

Our parish’s youth community and Social Action Group have created a special group

-The Saint Bernard League-

to help with shoveling for our parishioners in need throughout the winter months.

How does this work?

When it snows – “your” Saint Bernard will call you to see if you are in need of help. If you need their services, you will set up a convenient time and your Saint Bernard will shovel for you and your family.

Do you need the services of our OLL Saint Bernards?

If you would like to be included on the list of parishioners who may need the services of our OLL Saint Bernard League volunteers, please call the Parish Office at 661.3224 or email to jsureau@ollchurch.org.

Do you want to be a Saint Bernard?

We are in need of individual parishioners and parish families to be “Saint Bernards” to those in need within our parish community. If you want to become an OLL Saint Bernard, just call the Parish Office at 661.3224 and leave your name and phone number or e-mail to jsureau@ollchurch.org.

Living God's Call for Charity and Justice in Political Life

An excerpt from Deus Caritas Est (God is Love), the first Encyclical of Pope Benedict XVI
...to the Bishops, priests, and deacons, men and women, religious and all the lay faithful on Christian love.

The Church's Political Responsibility

The Church's social teaching argues on the basis of reason and natural law, namely, on the basis of what is in accord with the nature of every human being. It recognizes that it is not the Church's responsibility to make this teaching prevail in political life. Rather, the Church wishes to help form consciences in political life and to stimulate greater insight into the authentic requirements of justice as well as greater readiness to act accordingly, even when this might involve conflict with situations of personal interest. Building a just social and civil order, wherein each person receives what is his or her due, is an essential task which every generation must take up anew. As a political task, this cannot be the Church's immediate responsibility. Yet, since it is also a most important human responsibility, the Church is duty-bound to offer, through the purification of reason and through ethical formation, her own specific contribution towards understanding the requirements of justice and achieving them politically. The Church cannot and must not take upon herself the political battle to bring about the most just society possible. She cannot and must not replace the State. Yet at the same time she cannot and must not remain on the sidelines in the fight for justice. She has to play her part through rational argument and she has to reawaken the spiritual energy without which justice, which always demands sacrifice, cannot prevail and prosper. A just society must be the achievement of politics, not of the Church. Yet the promotion of justice through efforts to bring about openness of mind and will to the demands of the common good is something which concerns the Church deeply.

Feast of the Holy Family

Luke 2:41-52

Christian comedian Jeff Allen successfully mixes his faith with his humorous look at everyday life. On his web page, he invites the public to relate funny family stories. One such story involved a boy at school and a homework assignment. On the board, the teacher wrote that the class should all read “Pg. 13” in their books that evening. The boy raised his hand and said he couldn’t do the homework because his parents don’t allow anything PG-13 in their home.

Family miscommunications have been taking place for as long as there have been families. Thinking they had lost their son, Joseph and Mary searched for three days, only to find him with the teachers in the temple, listening and asking questions like a young man much older than his 12 years. Jesus was surprised at their concern, explaining that he was in the house of his Father. Though the Gospel of Luke says they did not understand what he meant, it also says Mary kept these things in her heart, as mothers always do.

We are taught in The Catechism of the Catholic Church that the Christian family is considered a community of faith, hope, and charity. Our family community is both a sign and an image of the communion of the Father and the Son in the Holy Spirit (CCC 2204-5). By having children and raising them in a holy and prayerful home, we are reflecting God’s work of creation. A strong family will remain that way with the love of God.

Commandments for the Long Haul

Fr. Ron Rolheiser, OMI

Daniel Berrigan once wrote a wonderful little book entitled, “Ten Commandments for the Long Haul”. It was intended as spiritual sustenance, sustaining food, for those who walk the lonely, long road of faith and often find themselves discouraged and running out of gas. Berrigan doesn't offer a quick fix, but points out the right direction within which we should be walking and where, at key junctures, if we cast our eyes at the right spot, we might find Elijah's jug, God's food for the journey.

As we begin a new year, filled with new hope and new resolutions, here are ten such commandments that might serve us well as we walk the long road:

1) Acknowledge your contingency, your helplessness. You are a creature, not the creator.

You are not God, but a creature. Only God is “ipsum esse subsistens”, self-sufficient being. Like all creatures, you're dependent and interdependent. Life works when you acknowledge this, when you accept that you can't give yourself life. All is gift. If you try to live the illusion of self-sufficiency and try to guarantee your own immortality, you mimic the sin of Adam and Eve, complete with all the futility of effort, the lording-it-over, and the alienation from nature that ensues. Proper living begins with the words: “I am not God!”

2) Pray, prayers of helplessness, gratitude, and praise.

Pray always! Also pray formally each day. By your baptism you're a priest. Pray as priest: Hold the world up each day to God. Hold up both its wonders and its pain. Pray in gratitude, thanking God, not just for “this or that”, but for life itself, for light, for this earth, for those who love you. Pray from your weaknesses and helplessness: “Lord, hang on to me lest I slip away from you. Do for me what I cannot do for myself.”

3) Welcome and accept the present moment.

Life is what happens to you while you're planning your life. Don't let the busyness, pressures, and heartaches of life steal the present moment from you. Only it is real. Drink it in, with all it carries. It's the only place you will experience love and joy. If not now-when? If not with these people-with whom? If not here-where?

4) Give yourself permission to be inadequate.

Both God and nature give you permission not to be perfect. Don't be too hard on yourself and, especially, on others. Everyone falls short. God doesn't keep you from falling and failing, but redeems you when you do fall. You're loved as you are. Fear not, you are inadequate!

5) Be sufficiently loving and critical, both at the same time

If you're critical without being loving, you're destructive. If you're loving without being critical, you're weak. Your loved ones, your church, and your community need you to be loving and critical, both at the same time. Don't blackmail community by constantly threatening your withdrawal. Love, be critical, and stay. Pull from your bag the new as well as the old.

6) Be post-ideological, post personal-history, post-conservative, post-liberal, post-naive, and post-sophisticated.

Be non-classifiable. Have an unlisted number as regards being liberal or conservative. Admit that the right and left have both run out of imagination and that their sympathies are highly-selective. Don't be naive, but don't be sophisticated either. See both as phases to pass through. Forgive your past.

7) Bless what's good and beautiful, even as you stand where the cross of Christ is erected.

Bless what's good in the world. Never, for the sake of cause, orthodoxy or justice, denigrate beauty. All that's good and beautiful has God as author. Honour it, before speaking any word of challenge to the world. Imitate Christ: First bless the world and its goodness and, only then, go stand where the cross is perennially erected, where the excluded ones in the culture find themselves.

8) Be shockingly “Catholic” - earthy and wine-drinking.

Bask in the goodness of life. We have divine permission to be happy. God invented wine. Jesus scandalized people with his capacity to enjoy life. He drank wine and let his heart be warmed by friends. Don't confuse John the Baptist with Jesus. John was the ascetic, not Jesus.

9) Accept aging.

Rely more on the paschal mystery than on cosmetics. All that dies brings rich new life, even our own bodies. Paschal wisdom will do more for your joy than a face-lift. Aging needs to be defined aesthetically. Your soul must be properly aged before it leaves and your body, like an old wine-barrel, takes on a different function and beauty as you age. Aging is an art form.

10) Serve the right God!

God, as Julian of Norwich assures us, “is completely relaxed and courteous, himself the happiness and peace of his dear friends, his beautiful face, radiating measureless love, like a marvellous symphony.” Don't serve any other God than this One. Don't bow to any molten calf, created in the image and likeness of our own tensions and bitterness.

Sharing the Gospel

When Jesus traveled to Jerusalem as a 12-year-old young man, he felt completely at home in the temple. He enjoyed talking to the teachers about his Father in heaven. His questions and his answers showed how much he loved God.
